TAMMY WEAVER, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Weaver of Pamplin, was crowned Miss Dixie Youth Queen on July 3. She was escorted by Eugene Taylor of Pamplin. Other contestants were Susan Booker, and Dana Lee. The Minior League Queen was Kim Remanne, and contestants were Belinda Franklin, Kelly Talley and Anita Wells.

DECA survey set

This week, the Distributive Education Department is in the process of administering their annual summer survey of local businesses around Appomattox and the surrounding area.

The department consists of John Moon, who is in his third year at Appomattox and Bruce Fall, who is new to the department from Norfolk, Va.

"We are hoping to place all of our Co-op students this year," said Mr. Moon. A Co-op student receives two class credits, one for working in a retail business and the other through supplementary training and instruction.

"The survey not only helps in placing students in local retail businesses, it aids us in selecting topics for the adult classes we will be offering this fall," he added.

"We find the business community to be very supportive of our program and its offerings."

Not only can businesses help themselves by participating in the program they support the future of Appomattox by assisting in the education of its young people.

An exciting weekend just passed as many, young and old came out for the camp out at Liberty Campground. Everyone enjoyed boating, fishing, swimming, and on Saturday evening Alan Reed, a youth major at L.B.S. gathered us under the pines by the lake for some old-fashioned singing and preaching. Again Sunday morning and evening we enjoyed Alans singing. Our Pastors brother, Rev. Bob Gallagher, from Richmond brought the Sunday evening message. He challenged us to read thirty pages of God's Word daily and in one month we would complete the entire Bible. How about that! Lets give it a try!

On this coming Friday the Word of Life Club will sponsor a bake sale to cover their expenses as they travel to Maryland on Saturday to compete in the Regional Softball Tournament. They, along with their leaders, Jim and Sue Bitner, and Dewey and Ann Woods have worked hard. Everyone come by in front of Kings and buy some goodies or make a donation. Remember this is not for the church but for the girls as they wish to cover their own expenses.

The Ladies Fellowship had their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening with Peggie Gallagher. Charlotte Gaylor, from Lynchburg came as our guest speaker, accompanied by Kathy Hendricks, and Myra Lucas also of Lynchburg. She gave an inspiring talk on "The Fruits of the Spirit."

Our pastor, Ron Gallagher will soon begin a study on the book of Revelation. As we read the news daily we see this book of prophecy unfolding before our very eyes. This will be an exciting study as we anxiously await our Lords soon coming.

Verse for the week: John 4:24 God is a Spirit and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth.

Local All-Stars win two in South Boston

The All-Star Team selected to represent Appomattox County in the District Babe Ruth Tournament at South Boston was selected by the coaches of the local Babe Ruth teams. The team is composed of the following players: Bobby Wingfield, Kevin Ferguson, Tim Bennett, Jody Williams, James Carico, Allen Edmunds, Rodney Bryant, Mike Williams, Gary Ferguson, John Booker, Jay Chenault, Dennie Hudson, Ricky Mayberry, Greg Mayberry and Ken Caldwell.

The team manager is Floyd Williams, and the coaches are Leon Edmonds and Fred (Bookie) Johnson.

On Saturday, July 12, at South Boston competing in the tournament Appomattox defeated Rustburg by a score of 6-4.

Winning pitcher was Greg Mayberry.

The second game was played Monday, July 14, at South Boston with Appomattox defeating South Hill by a score of 1-0.

The lone run was scored after Bobby Wingfield singled and Allen Edmonds doubled to drive in the run. No South Hill player reached third base the entire game. Winning pitcher was Tim Bennett.

Upon completion of the game the umpires complimented both teams on their good play and sportsmanship.

Appomattox was scheduled to play again on Wednesday, July 16, 1980 at South Boston.

Pests pose threat

By JAMES A. SMITH
Extension Agent

There are several pests posed to cause extensive damage to the Appomattox agricultural industry. Land owners and certain commodity producers need to be especially watchful.

Multiflora rose continues to spread profusely even though there are excellent herbicides available to control this plant.

Autumn Olive or Russian Olive has been used as a cover for wildlife and as an ornamental where it is called eleagnus. This plant can escape and cause problems.

Johnsongrass has formed a seed head -- it needs to be sprayed -- this week will literally take over cropland.

Shattercane has been identified on one farm and there it is a major problem.

Recently, looking over some corn on the James River lowground, there was a heavy stand of poison Hemlock. If this weed was ensiled with corn, we could expect death losses from the livestock.

Musk Thistle was first identified in this county near the Appomattox River in the Hixburg area - later several isolated plants were identified on the road leading to Holiday Lake. This year one pasture near Pamplin was found to have a large number of musk plants.

There are reports that the Cereal Leaf Beetle is moving into corn plantings. Earlier we had felt that this insect was essentially a pest of small grains. In recent days we've learned that Indiana has experienced this change from small grains to corn; however, it appears that corn can tolerate considerable CLB damage.

The Potatoe Leafhopper can cause signigicant damage to alfalfa. This small (1/8 inch long) insect feeds on the vascular tissue of the plants. The potatoe leafhoppers insert their piercing-sucking mouth parts into the plant and remove plant juices. In this feeding process, digestive enzymes are inserted by the leafhopper causing a reaction by the plant which clogs the vascular channels in the stem. Transport of mineral nutrients and water up the stem, as well as photosynthate from leaves to the roots, is blocked and yellowing and stunting can occur.

Leafhopper infestations are highly variable from field to field; therefore, check each alfalfa field carefully. The best assessment of damage is with an insect net and a decision making chart. This chart considers leafhopper population and plant height.

The most critical period for monitoring potatoe leafhopper is when the plants are small (under 9 inches). Once plants have been severly damaged by leafhoppers, killing the leafhopper with insecticides will not allow the plants to recover. The alfalfa must be cut to allow new, undamaged growth to begin.

Important: If high leafhopper numbers occur when the plants are at least 12 inches tall and buds are beginning to appear, cut rather than spray. Spraying will remove the leafhoppers, but clogging the plants vascular tissue will have already occurred.

There is a new mimosa tree that is a wilt-resistant cultivar called "Union." If the mimosa is one of your favorites, you may want to try this one.

Fusarium wilt has taken out many of the mimosas in Appomattox County. Several years ago, varities that were said to be resistant were "Tryon" and "Charlotte," but they have succumbed to the disease.

Mount Pleasant News

If you really love the Saviour and your all in him have found. You will be happy for the privilege, just to pass the word around John 1:41-42.

The fifth Sunday in June was family day. Our guest was suppose to have been Rev. James Birchmore. The Men Chorus and the Echoes of Washington, D.C. God saw fit and called Rev. Birchmore to rest. So the program from Washington was canceled.

We had as our guest Rev. Harrison Kelso and a group with Mrs. Odell Branch at the piano. The afternoon service there was the "Lee Family" from the Mt. Olive Baptist Church. We had a good time in the name of the Lord. This was our third family day. Each year it gets better.

Deacon John Edward preached his trail sermon last Sunday, July 6 at 4 p.m. at Mt. Pleasant. Guest ministers were Rev. Bedford of Darlington Heights, Rev. Roland Berryman of Lynchburg, Va., Rev. James Franklin and Rev. H. O. Flood of Pamplin. Our pastor Rev. K. W. Davis was master of ceremonies. We had guest from Smithfield, Va., Baltimore, Md., Peters burg and Richmond, Va. We had an over flowing crowd. The sermon was beautiful and well planned. The Young Adult Choir sang with Mrs. Catherine Haskin as pianist.

There will be homecoming at Mt. Pleasant the fourth Sunday in this month. Revival starting that Monday night. Rev. Bill Johnson, will be our evangilist for the week. Come out and witness some good singing and preaching.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Chambers and family motored down to Councial, N. C. to visit his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Shaw.

We had a nice Sunday School last Sunday. Some of our children are away for the summer. Marie Freeman in New Jersey, Tyreais Chambers in Baltimore, Clinton Saunders in Washington, D.C.

Happiness is 4-H

Now is an excellent time for senior age 4-H'ers to work on their Achievement Records for 1981. Many of the record book requirements can be completed in the summer when things are not so rushed.

* * *

A 4-H canned goods exhibit will be held in early September. 4-H'ers will be eligible to exhibit vegetables and fruits that they have helped can over the summer. More details will be coming on this new 4-H activity.

* * *

4-H'ers having calves, lambs, and hogs to enter in this year's Five County Fair are asked to contact us at the Extension Office so we can schedule some special help sessions. Now is a good time to begin work with your show animals so they will be at their best when Fair time arrives.

A new 4-H Forestry Judging program will be introduced in Virginia this coming fall. The program was tested in Southwest Virginia this past year. Our information about the program indicates that it will include identification of forest trees, uses of lumber, etc. More details will be coming in the future on this exciting new 4-H activity.

TIMES-VIRGINIAN

Bugg expresses thanks

Editor:

Many thanks are extended to family, friends, and the citizens of Appomattox for the cards, flowers, gifts and visits I received during my stay at Hotel Roanoke this past week as I proudly represented our county to the best of my ability.

True, only one girl took home the crown, but 25 contestants from across the state shared the joy of her victory on Saturday night. Having known Holly Jereme before going to the state pageant, I can sincerely say she will make a great "Miss Virginia" and will represent our state outstandingly.

Thanks, and I love you all!

Sincerely,

Nadine Faye Bugg
